An Introduction

Our ancient sages believed that God incarnates in the Yantras. When we worship the Yantra, we seek divine help for the fulfillment of our desires and wishes. With utmost faith and belief, Pooja to the Yantra removes obstacles and guides us towards a happy, healthy and prosperous life. Yantras can be installed at home or at the place of work.

A Yantra is a geometrical figure representing the basic energies. It is composed of a circle divided into seven equal segments, each segment containing a figure and a number. One is for knowledge, wisdom and healing of diseases. One denotes music, confidence and happiness; for family progress in the present and future; for health, wealth, prosperity, a comfortable happy home and protection from all troubles; for power, authority, finances of the individual and all those dependent on him. It also signifies success in politics, favors from superiors and fulfillment of, all desires; for protection against the evil eye and other dangers to both — the individual and his family; for courage against all odds; ensuring success in all activities.

According to our Shastras deities are worshipped in different forms and each form is linked to a Yantra they are the graphic representations of Mantras.

Yantras can bring the desired results only when they are energized by a siddha Pooja. The energized Yantra hence becomes the medium through which the invisible forces of energy act on an individual.

All Yantras are energized by a panel of enlightened Pundits through an elaborate scriptural procedure (vidhi) ensuring that each Siddha Yantra is infused with the power of the deity. Thereafter, the virtual presence of the Almighty in one's environment bestows the worshipper of the Yantra with blessings and protection.

Literally, “Koorm Prishthiya Meru Shree Yantra” means Shree Yantra which is mounted at the back of tortoise upwards. It is also believed that the tortoise lifted the weight of the earth over its back. In relation to Lord Kachehap Avatar (incarnation of Lord Vishnu) it is also believed that the whole energy and substance of this living world or earth is created around Meru Prishth (back of tortoise) which has the elements like water, earth along with mountains etc.

So to attain and achieve the material substance of the Universe one (worshiper) has to recite Mantras as :- “Om, Aaing, Hring, Kling, Shring, Mahalakshmiye Namah” It is also believed that the ‘Koorma Prishthiya Shree Yantra’ was vividly used by the learned Brahmin community of coastal area in Rameshwaram, Kerala in Seventh or Eighth Century. The Shree Yantra designed on the mount over the back of a tortoise looks similar to the dome of any temple which is slightly mounted. It also depicts one of the fundamental of “Vastu Kala” which says that any residential house, palace or temple must be mounted at the centre to the top, so that the person residing in it should get more and more energy radiation & solar reflections from the cosmic universe or Brahmanda (world) to be more healthy, wealthy and wise.
